The Cape Peninsula University of Technology is the largest tertiary education institution in the Western Cape, with a total enrolment of over 36 000 students. Spread over five campuses and offering about 70 undergraduate courses, the university is well placed to achieve its vision of being the heart of technology education and innovation in Africa. Our unique work-integrated model, combining classroom learning with practical experience, continues to produce young professionals with the skills and knowledge needed to transition successfully into the workplace.

The past decade has seen CPUT introducing new qualifications to address the needs of commerce and industry, and the public sector. We have also established a strong interdisciplinary research culture and strengthened collaborative initiatives with government, business and leading local and international universities. We have achieved excellent results in transferring our research and innovation outputs into commercially viable and socially relevant products such as cutting edge space technology, in the form of satellites launched by us that detect wildfires and monitor shipping traffic, our research into Rooibos tea and its anti oxidative properties and our catalytic waste water treatment process.

Through our innovative approaches to education, we equip the current generation with the critical skills needed to move South Africa into the fourth industrial revolution. Cape Peninsula University of Technology, Creating Futures.
